

Understanding the healthcare updates.

Every health insurance plan now provides:

Coverage for those with pre-existing conditions.

If you have a pre-existing condition (ex: diabetes, pregnancy, heart problems), you will be able to get coverage.

Increased preventive care.

More preventive care services are covered. These include yearly checkups, blood pressure tests, shots and some cancer screenings.

No lifetime limits.

Your healthcare company will keep paying for your healthcare needs. Your coverage won't run out.

Increased coverage for children.

Kids can stay on a parent's healthcare plan until they are 28 years old.

Fair coverage at a fair cost.

Insurance companies can only look at your age, where you live and whether or not you smoke to figure out how much your health plan will cost.

Easier ways to get coverage.

The Health Insurance Marketplace is an online shopping site where you can explore your health insurance options.

Covered preventive care for women.

Women can receive complete coverage for well-woman visits, breast-feeding support and supplies, FDA-approved birth control methods and more.

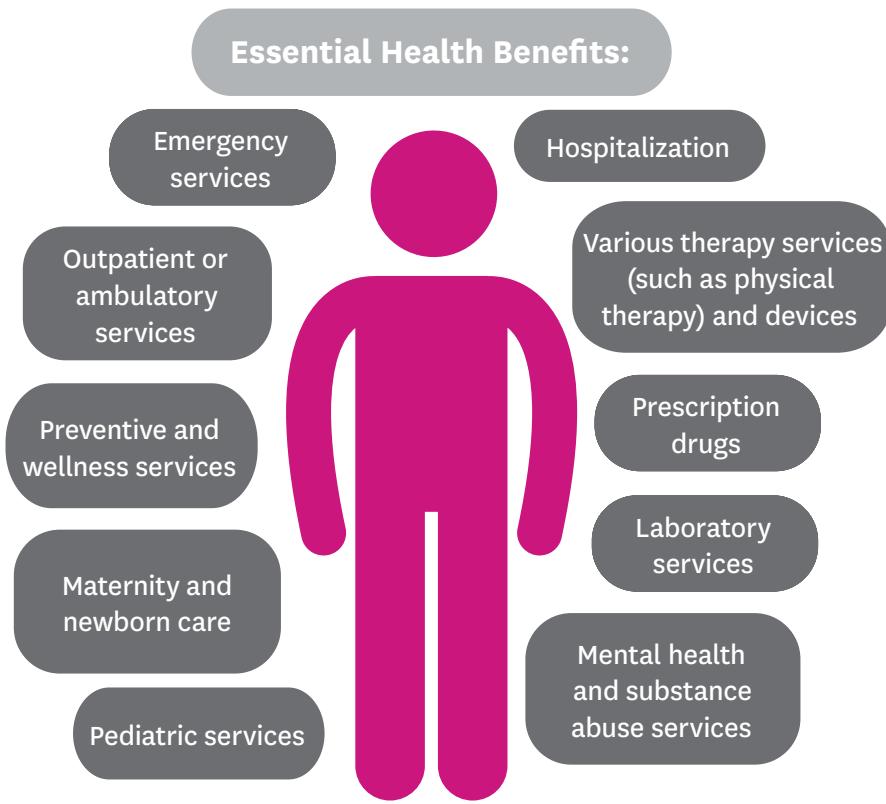

More opportunities for subsidies.

You can get help paying for your premium with a subsidy. A subsidy is money that the government gives to your insurer to help pay for your plan.

Ambetter is a Health Insurance Marketplace plan that offers these benefits and more. Call for details.
